BABLER AND MORSE GO TO WASHINGTON FOR FUND INQUIRY

Missouri Republican Commit-

Boss to Appear Before
Senate Committee.

WILL TELL HOW
$32,000 WAS SPENT

T. W. Hukriede of Warrenton Gets Proxy to Look After State's Interests at Committee Meetings.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 31.—Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, and E. J. Morse of Excelsior Springs, the Lowden "paymaster" in Missouri, departed at noon today for Washington to testify regarding the expenditure of $32,000 of Lowden money in Missouri.

T. W. Hukriede of Warrenton, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, is representing Babler at the sessions of the National Committee. One of the Babler's close friends said this afternoon that before leaving Chicago Babler admitted that $2000 of the Lowden money went to John Albus, leader of the Lowden faction in St. Joseph and one of the contesting Lowden delegation from the Fourth District.

Babler yesterday had asked to be excused from testifying at this time, saying he would need to remain in Chicago in connection with the work of the convention, and named June 21 as the earliest date when he could appear. With the arrival in Chicago yesterday of Babler, David W. Mulvane of Kansas and other Republican National Committeemen from Middle Western States, a concerted drive was begun to control Gov. Lowden, the uninstructed delegates from that section of the country, and the Lowden propaganda, which is the most extensive of that of all the candidates for the Republican nomination for President, received additional impetus.

After many conferences last night, Mulvane declared his belief that the Middle West would be almost solid for Lowden, and that his strength would be so apparent on early balloting that his nomination would not long be postponed after the balloting began. Morse declared his belief that the entire 36 votes of Missouri would go to Lowden.

The Lowden headquarters were greatly cheered last night by information from a source considered thoroughly reliable that Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, who has been carefully promoting a presidential boom for Senator Knox, would be unable to attend the convention. They expressed conviction that without personal support of the Knox boom would collapse.

While it is understood that Senator Watson of Indiana will be in between battles in the Senate, Ray Hewlett of Illinois, O. Cortis, M. E. Emille, Reneuf of Paris so successfully that a few weeks ago she wrote she would accept his invitation to come to America and become his bride, Hewlett provided passage for her and she sailed 10 days ago on the steamship La Savoie.

Aboard she became acquainted with Nicola Rassa, a tenor of Brooklyn, who returned from a course of lessons in Italy. When Hewlett sprang at the girl at the pier yesterday intent upon a kiss and embrace, he met a buffer in the person of Nicola. The girl explained she did not know which she would marry.

While she is debating and immigration details are being straightened out, she will be in care of the Travelers' Aid Society.

LLOYD GEORGE RECEIVES SOVIET MINISTER OF TRADE IN LONDON

Officials Suggest Premier Acted as Member of Council Rather Than in Governmental Capacity.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 31.—Premier Lloyd George received Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce, and one of his colleagues this afternoon. It is understood that Andre Bonar Law, the Government leader, and Earl Curzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, also were present.

No information was given out as to whether Mr. Krassin's reception was official, but in one official quarter it was suggested that the Premier was seeing Mr. Krassin in his capacity as member of the Supreme Council, rather than as a member of the British Government.

PRESIDENT CONFERS WITH CUMMINGS; 'DEFINES THE ISSUE'

Chairman Takes Lunch at White House and Finds Mr. Wilson in Good Humor.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Wilson and Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National Committee conferred for two hours today, discussing the general political situation and the forthcoming Democratic national convention at San Francisco. Later they had lunch together.

Cummings said he had visited the White House at the President's invitation and that he and the President had talked "very freely and frankly." The League of Nations issue, he added, was "sharply defined" by the President, to his "gratification."

Asked as to the immediate future of the peace treaty, Cummings said he had discussed the matter with the President, but did not feel at liberty to talk about it. "Will the treaty be sent back to the Senate soon?" he was asked. "I do not care to comment on that," he replied. "The President has very definite ideas on the subject, and so have I."

"Do those ideas conflict in any way?" he was asked. "They do not," the chairman replied.

Cummings said platform questions were not discussed at length because little difficulty was anticipated regarding platform expressions, in view of the President's recent letter to the Senator Class of Virginia, expressing approval of the Virginia State convention platform.

Asked if the Senate investigation into pre-convention campaign expenditures had been discussed, Cummings said he had nothing to say on that subject except that the President was in a "good humor."

Cummings said he had submitted a copy of the keynote speech he is to deliver at San Francisco, and that the President was well satisfied with it.

300-POUND SAFE, $1135 STOLEN IN TWO BURGLARIES

Market Street Theater Entered and Saturday's and Sunday's Receipts Taken.

Burglars stole $1135 and a 300-pound safe in two robberies last night. At the Olympia Theater, 1422 Market street, they rolled a 700-pound safe from the ticket office to the orchestra pit, where they "jimmied" the safe and took $100, representing Saturday's and Sunday's receipts.

Sometime between 6 o'clock last night and 7 o'clock this morning a side window at the St. Louis Oil Co. filling station, 273 De Balive avenue, was pried open, and a safe weighing 300 pounds was carried off. The safe contained $435 in money and a check for $10. Sunday's receipts.

Burglars in the office of the Vandeventer Lumber Co., 715 South Vandeventer avenue, early yesterday, broke off the combination on a safe and forced an inner door, stealing $50 and three Liberty Bonds from the cash drawer.

Flowers on River—Elks'
Ceremony at 11 P. M.

Members of the American Legion and Spanish War Veterans marched in the downtown Memorial day parade, which started east on Washington avenue from Twelfth street at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The destination was the steamer St. Paul, which was engaged for the ride to Jefferson Barracks, where the annual memorial observance takes place later in the afternoon.

At the same time about 75 members of the Grand Army of the Republic were gathered at the Elks' Club, and they left soon afterward for the barracks in automobiles furnished by the Elks and the Chamber of Commerce. Several of the veterans were negroes. Before the automobile ride, the veterans had lunch at the club. Flowers, for use in decorating graves at the barracks, filled three automobiles.

The day was observed by the closing of Federal and city offices, banks, railroad offices, the Merchants' Exchange and Stock Exchange, and some large industrial establishments. The public schools and downtown retail stores were open. There were memorial observances in churches yesterday, and an afternoon concert in the Municipal Theater in Forest Park.

One of the members of the Grand Army of the Republic marched in the downtown parade. He was John W. Little of 627 1/2 Madison street, and he had a place of honor in the parade, beside Dwight F. Davis, grand marshal.

Mounted policemen and the band of Quentin Roosevelt Post, American Legion, led the march. The Spanish War Veterans, a small group, were headed by Ora O. Evans, department commander, and Otto Emmendorfer, chief of staff.

A large floral wreath, bearing the insignia of Quentin Roosevelt Post, was carried at the head of the American Legion. A number of army nurses, in blue uniform, were in line.

Most of the members of the Legion were in civilian clothes, as were Davis, the grand marshal, Robert Burkham, chairman of the St. Louis Executive Committee, and Richard L. Daly, chief of staff. Col. J. H. Parker of the recruiting station was in uniform and acted as one of the grand marshals' staff. Others on the staff were Dr. L. H. Renfrow, John L. Nansen, Robert Reynolds and Leslie M. Stewart.

This year the Legion was scheduled to march. The posts, for the most part, were not distinguished from one another in the line, which was not a long one. There will be more boys out five or ten years hence, "one of the post officers remarked, in commenting on the comparatively small number in line.

On the Jefferson Barracks parade ground, the Spanish War Veterans were a guard of honor, through which the American Legion will pass. The American Legion will then form a guard of honor for the passage of the Spanish War Veterans.

The G. A. R. will head the column, to form at 3:15 p. m. on the parade ground, for the march to the cemetery. Minute guns will be fired during the march.

In the exercises at the cemetery, the G. A. R. ritual will be followed. The invocation will be made by the Rev. C. G. Gunn, chaplain of the American Legion, and Robert Burkham, chairman of the executive committee of the Legion in St. Louis, will deliver an address. The barracks band will furnish music. A prayer for the Spanish War Veterans, together with the names of the G. A. R., attended the naval memorial exercises on the free bridge highway at 10 a. m. They assembled at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue, and marched to the center of the bridge, where the

SURGEONS REMOVE OPEN SAFETY PINS FROM BABY'S THROAT

Obstructions Located by X-Ray Photographs and Extracted Without Lacerations.

Two open safety pins of medium size were removed from the throat of Herbert Grosby, 11-months-old son of Dr. H. G. Grosby, 6033 Pershing avenue, at St. Luke's Hospital, yesterday. A delicate surgical operation was necessary to accomplish the task.

The pins, points upward, had lodged in the mouth of the oesophagus, at the upper part of the gullet, in the lower section of the throat. They were located by the fluoroscope and were removed in such a manner that no laceration was inflicted.

The baby swallowed the pins when playing on the floor of the nursery in the Grosby home at 8 a. m. yesterday and immediately after had a violent choking spell. Dr. Grosby took the infant to the hospital at once.

When the fluoroscope had disclosed the pins X-ray photographs of the baby's throat were taken. Two surgeons were called to remove the pins. With the aid of the X-ray plates they did the work with forceps. The pins were removed at 11 a. m. The surgeons said today that the child had suffered no after effects from the operation.

CROWDS GREET PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT AT MEXICAN CAPITAL

Cheers for De La Huerta as He Makes Way From Station in Heavy Rain.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, May 31.—Adolfo De La Huerta, elected Provisional President of Mexico, last week, arrived last night, accompanied by General Salvador Alvarado, Provisional Secretary of the Treasury. He was escorted to his hotel by Gen. Obregon and high military officials who went to the station to meet him in spite of a heavy rain.

Thousands thronged the streets to greet the revolutionary executive, many stood on the tops of street cars to catch a glimpse of him, and there were loud cheers as he drove from the station. Soldiers guarded the entrance of the hotel for several minutes after the Provisional President had arrived, but soon gave up the effort to bar the crowd from the lobby. Provisional President De La Huerta went immediately to his room, sending word to newspaper correspondents that he was too fatigued to talk last night.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 31.—The Missouri Supreme Court, in a decision today, held that the new state income tax law, which became effective Aug. 7 last, increasing the rate from one-half of one per cent to 1 1/2 per cent, applied only to that part of the income accruing between Aug. 7 and Dec. 31, 1919, and that income received between Jan. 1 and Aug. 7, 1919, should have been taxed at the old rate of 1/2 of one per cent.

MAN DROWNED IN MERAMEC; WIND UPSETS HIS CANOE

Leo A. Hillner, Assistant Sales Manager of Mills Co.,
Only Comes to Surface
Once After Entering Water

By the Associated Press.
LEO A. HILLNER, 24 years old, of 5963 Romaine place, assistant sales manager for the Corno Mills Co., was drowned in the Meramec River, about one mile west of Valley Park, when a sudden gust of wind overturned his canoe. The body has not been recovered. Hillner, alone in his canoe, was returning from Fern Glenn, two miles west of Valley Park, where he had taken a young woman, for whom he was to return in an hour. His sister, Marie Hillner, and James Martine, 1348 Blackstone avenue, another canoe, were about 25 feet behind him. Hillner, clad in a bathing suit, was on the rear seat of the canoe, and seemed to slide into the water as the wind lifted the nose of the canoe.

The river was dotted with other canoes, and at once 10 or 12 persons were in the water trying to reach Hillner. He disappeared, came up once and made one lunge for his canoe, then went down and was seen no more.

He could swim slightly, but his heart had been weakened by spinal meningitis, which he had suffered while in the army, and relatives felt that this may have caused his inability to remain afloat.

His sister was prostrated and had to be taken to the clubhouse near Valley Park, where she and three of her four brothers had gone that morning to spend the day. A net was stretched at Valley Park and the river dragged during the night.

Hillner's mother, Mrs. Philomena Hillner, three brothers and a sister, survive. Hillner was a Corporal in the Ordnance Department for 14 months, during the war, having had seven months' service in France. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

THE STATE income tax assessment against St. Louisans for the year 1919, under the 1 1/2 per cent assessment, totaled $2,297,000. Of this about $700,000 had been paid up to last Saturday, and today's mail brought hundreds of letters to the collector's office containing remittances.

PERSONS DELINQUENT WILL BE SUBJECT TO A PENALTY OF THREE PER CENT, ONE PER CENT OF WHICH IS THE MONTHLY PENALTY FOR DELAY, AND THE OTHER TWO PER CENT BEING CREDITED TO THE COLLECTOR'S OFFICE FOR THE EXPENSE OF COLLECTING THE STATE FUND.

Persons delinquent will be subject to a penalty of three per cent, one per cent of which is the regular monthly penalty for delay, and the other two per cent being credited to the collector's office for the expense of collecting the State fund.

MRS. KATE O'HARE BEGINS WORK FOR PRISON REFORMS

Socialist Leader Who Was Released Yesterday "Doesn't Regret a Day of 14 Months in Prison."

CALLS TERM COURSE IN CRIMINOLOGY

She Prepares Breakfast for Family at Home—She Was Met at Union Station by About 100 Friends.

Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, Socialist leader, who was released yesterday from the penitentiary at Jefferson City, was back at work today, 12 hours after her arrival here last night. A Post-Dispatch reporter found her this morning at her husband's office in the Holland Building, engaged in working upon her study of prison reform, which she began while a prisoner herself.

"I regard the 14 months which I spent in prison as a 14-months' college course in criminology," she said to the reporter. "It was hard, of course, but I feel that what I learned was worth it. I do not regret a day."

Her five-year sentence was commuted Saturday by President Wilson, and Attorney-General Palmer yesterday telegraphed an order for her immediate release.

Upon her arrival at Union Station last night, accompanied by Frank P. O'Hare, her husband, she was met by their four children and about 100 friends who had been notified that she was coming in. After dinner with friends she went to the O'Hare home, 3175 Brantley place.

This morning she got breakfast for her family, and went to the office soon afterward.

Health Good After Imprisonment.

She appears to be in the best of health, and declared she was feeling well. She weighs more than when she entered the prison. Her hair, perhaps, is somewhat whiter.

She was convicted of violation of the espionage act in making a speech at Bowman, N. D., in the summer of 1917, that was held to be in opposition to the conduct of the war. It was a Socialist address, such as she had been delivering for many years.

"The pioneer work of Socialism is done," she said today. "The force of events has brought Socialism to that point where the heart-breaking labor of propaganda is no longer necessary. Right now, news of the Socialist party is given a better place in your paper and all the great newspapers, than news of the other two parties."

"If the Republicans and Democrats nominate for President such reactionaries as Wood and Palmer, there will be a tremendous swing to the Socialist party, and there is likely to be such a landslide as elected Lincoln the first time."

Campaign Contributions.

"The investigation of campaign contributions by the Senate is opening people's eyes. We Socialists have known for many years that that was the way Republican and Democratic candidates were always selected, but the people didn't believe us. All the Socialists know that a few rich men always dominate the nomination of candidates of the two old parties, but this is the first time the bones were ever spilled in public. You don't hear anything about rich men contributing to Democratic campaign funds."

Mrs. O'Hare was full of the subject of prison reform. She related that when she learned, in 1919, that she would have to go to prison, she prepared an outline for a scientific study of criminology, and took it to prison with her. She has worked steadily upon it throughout her imprisonment, she said.

"I have been going up and down this country for a good many years, and I have seen a good many unfortunates," she said, "but I am convinced that the populations of the prisons are the most hopeless, helpless and friendless lot in the world. Of course, if a prisoner knows a friend of some politician, he is all right—he'll get out, but the great mass of them have no such friends."

"Most people do not know that there are more people in prisons in this country today than there are in college. Every year 200,000 of these men and women, some diseased, all emaciated, cynical, and harboring a social grudge, are turned loose upon the community under circumstances which make it probable that they will commit another crime."

Congratulations by Wire.

While Mrs. O'Hare was talking, she was continually interrupted by persons coming in to congratulate her upon her release. More than 30 telegrams of congratulation were received today from all parts of the country. Women who came into the office embraced her. She had a good-humored greeting for each.

"You're a martyr in a good cause," declared one woman after hugging her.

Mrs. O'Hare laughed in some embarrassment. "No, indeed," she replied. "I learned things that I never could have got in any other way. Think of the poor souls that are still in prison—they are the ones that need sympathy."

Turning to the reporter, she continued: "My friends thought it would not have been so bad if I had gone in for three months or six months, but that a year was terrible. I had come out at the end of six months, I would not have been able to complete my study of prison conditions. It takes a year to really see the physical, mental and moral degradation of the prisoners take place."

Views as to Criminals.

She said she had become convinced that psycho-analysis, as taught by Freud, furnished the best solution for the "cure" of crime. She believes, she said, that virtually all criminals "are not criminals at all, but are subnormal."

"The Missouri prison is no worse than the most," she said. "It is the system that is wrong. Warden Palmer is a good-hearted man, and long-headed politician, and when the people of Missouri demand better conditions, he will be only too glad to put them into effect."

"The overall factor where the women work is about like the commercial factory of 15 years ago. I was able to get along in the matter of food because I got much food from the outside. Those who are without money or friends do not fare very well."

She said that for nine hours a day the women prisoners are not allowed to speak to each other—not even to those working next to them. That is one of the worst features.

Kept Up With Events.

Mrs. O'Hare has kept in close touch with events. She spoke of the revelations of W. Jett Leuck, consulting economist for the railroad brotherhoods, on profiteering, and said he was doing wonderful work.

"It's a funny thing about me," she said. "The administration sent me to the pen to get rid of me, and thousands of people who had no card anything about me, and who wouldn't have gone to hear me speak for anything, have written letters to me, and have become interested in Socialism."

She said she intended to proceed immediately with her work of compiling data on the question of prison reform. She has been in communication with a number of college professors and students of penology.

MANY BUSINESS MEN AT FUNERAL OF JOHN SCULLIN

Services Are at St. Mary and St. Joseph's Church and Burial in Calvary Cemetery.

The funeral of John Scullin, railroad and street railway builder, chairman of the boards of directors of the Scullin Steel Co., was held this morning at St. Mary and St. Joseph's Church, Minnesota and Iron street, and was attended by a large gathering of business men and friends of the Scullin family.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Father M. S. Brennan. Father Brennan said that although he had been requested by members of the family to eulogize in simple terms, he could not refrain from paying a high tribute to the memory of the deceased. He compared Scullin with men who had won renown by applying wonderful inventions to public utilities.

He said that while electricity, as a power of locomotion, had been known for many years, Scullin was the first to apply it to street car service in St. Louis.

A letter from Archbishop Glennon expressing regret that on account of a church dedication at Jefferson City he was unable to attend the funeral and in which the prelate paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Scullin was read.

Burial in Calvary Cemetery followed. Scullin died at St. Luke's Hospital Friday night, after a brief illness. He was 83 years old.

GOLDSTEIN AND MOORE DEPART FOR WASHINGTON

They Will Appear Before Senate Committee Tomorrow to Tell of Money From Lowden Fund.

Nat Goldstein, Circuit Clerk, and Robert E. Moore, a Deputy Circuit Clerk under Goldstein, both of whom are members of the Republican City Committee and delegates from Missouri to the Republican national convention, departed yesterday for Washington, to appear tomorrow before the Senate committee which is investigating expenditures of funds in the presidential campaign.

The part of the Lowden fund about which Goldstein is to be asked is $2500, which he says he received and distributed to persons whom he has not named. Moore, who was also named as the recipient of $2500, has thus far denied that he got the money.

Goldstein and Moore, before departing yesterday, told they would tell the Senate Committee all they know about the matter in question.

Sensors Reed and Spencer of Missouri are members of the investigating committee. As Goldstein and Moore are members of the Missouri Republican City Committee and delegates from Missouri to the Republican national convention, they are expected to be in the lead in questioning them.

ago, and there will be little added to the facts disclosed there.

While Wood will go into the convention with the larger number of instructed delegates, the Lowden supporters contend they will have far the greater part of the uninstructed delegates, and that they expect Lowden to take the lead on the first ballot and to gradually gain strength from the states which will vote for favorite sons on the first ballot.

In the event of a tie, the Missouri votes would go to Wood at the beginning.

"They are not for Wood," Mulvane said, "but because Gov. Allen will place Wood's name before the convention and as a compromise to the Governor, a majority of the Kansas votes will be for Wood."

Quick Switch Predicted.

"I have no doubt, however, that they will quickly switch to Lowden after the first ballot."

Babler would not estimate the Missouri vote, though he said he believed it would be largely for Lowden.

T. H. National Committee member from Kentucky and vice chairman of the National Committee, has virtually taken charge of the Lowden campaign here. While L. L. Emerson, Secretary of State of Illinois, still is nominally in charge of affairs, it is with H. H. that the politicians are conferring.

Kentucky's 26 votes are being counted in the Lowden column because of H. H.'s influence. Of Iowa's 26 votes 22 are instructed for Lowden. Two of Arkansas' 21 are instructed for Lowden and it is the expectation that all will go together.

Okla. 20 are claimed for Lowden, though six are contested.

Much Lowden Propaganda.

There is much propaganda about one hears is the Lowden propaganda. The Lowden boosters are here in greater force and there is little question that just now the general trend is being made to appear to be toward Lowden. What will be the result of the convention convenes next week is another matter.

Aside from the politicians who are closely allied with one candidate or another there is no political leader of consequence who will venture a prediction as to who the nominees will be. The opinion is frequently heard expressed that Wood has been eliminated by the campaign expenditure investigation, because of the magnitude of the expenditure in his behalf, and that Senator Johnson also will suffer severely because he will be charged with instigating the investigation, which is considered very damaging to the party as a whole.

Lowden, a dark horse, is the common talk and the question invariably asked is what dark horse is available. This usually proves unanswerable unless the unexpected should happen and Senator Penrose should appear on the scene wielding his power for Knox.

BANK MOVES $80,000,000

27 BODIES FOUND AFTER FLOOD AT LOUTH, ENG.

Overflow of River Lud Follows Heavy Storm Across Country.

SOUTH, England, May 31.—Twenty-seven bodies of those who lost their lives Saturday night in the sudden recovered and many persons are missing. "Official estimates still place the death toll at about 50."

At least 50 houses were washed away and a thousand others damaged. Upward of 1000 persons have been made homeless. The damage is seriously estimated at $250,000. The waters of the river have subsided.

Premier Lloyd George sent a message to the Mayor of Louth, asking what assistance the Government could give to the victims of the storm, which caused the overflow centered about Louth, but it swept across the country from North Wales to Cambridge, where it exhausted its fury. Floods were experienced in many districts. Numerous cattle were drowned and much material damage has been reported.

"One terrace containing 15 houses was swept away, there being only one survivor."

Most of the people were in their homes, taking shelter from the thunderstorm when there came a rush of water three feet deep through the town. In many cases the weight of the water prevented the opening of doors, and the people were persons could have reached a place of safety. Within a short time the entire ground floors of houses were engulfed by the torrent, 220 yards wide.

In the worst part of the town, the lower rooms of houses were swamped. This was particularly true in the lower parts of the town. In the higher parts of the town many persons escaped, but only after wading waist deep through the water.

For the first time the cars will have a piston displacement of 183 inches or less. The first two races were open to cars of 600 inches. Last year the winner had a piston displacement of 274 inches.

The driver finishing in the finish line a winner will get a cash prize of $20,000. A total of $85,000 will be distributed. The winner, in addition to the $20,000 in first prize, also has a chance to win $20,000 more in the L. P. Prize competition offered by Indianapolis business men. A prize of $100 will be awarded to the winner of each complete circuit of the two and a half mile course, and if a pilot is successful in taking the lead and retaining it he will be assured of $40,000.

JOHN W. CUNLIFFE HEADS SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

Former Editor Named Director of Pulitzer School at Columbia University.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Prof. John W. Cunliffe has been appointed director of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, Frank D. Packenthal, secretary of the University, announced last night.

Dr. Cunliffe has been associated with the school since its inception in 1912, when he joined the staff as associate director and professor of English. He succeeds Dr. Talcott Williams, director emeritus, who retired last year.

During the past year Dr. Cunliffe has been acting director. In announcing the appointment, the University officials called attention to the provision in the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer which said:

"I am deeply interested in the progress and elevation of journalism, having spent my life in that profession, regarding it as a noble profession, and one of unequalled importance for its influence on the minds and morals of the people. I desire to assist in attracting to this profession young men of character and ability; also to help those already engaged in the profession to acquire the highest moral and intellectual training."

Dr. Cunliffe is a member of an old newspaper family. Born in Bolton, England, in 1865, when he joined the staff of the local newspaper, of which his father and grandfather were editors. Three years later he received his B. A. degree from the University of London and since has been awarded several higher degrees. After considerable experience on English newspapers, he joined the staff of the Montreal Gazette. In 1906 he came to Columbia to give courses in the graduate school. When due for a sabbatical leave in 1912, he was asked to assist in the organization of the Pulitzer School of Journalism.

Dr. Cunliffe has written much literary criticism and has made several collections of the works of representative English writers.

CENTRAL NATIONAL BANK TO HOLD OPENING IN NEW QUARTERS

The Central National Bank will hold the formal opening of its new quarters in the Third National Bank Building, Broadway and Olive street, tomorrow, but the original intention of changing the building name to Central National Bank Building, it was announced, will not yet be carried out.

The building, which formerly housed the bank at Seventh and Olive streets will retain the name of Central National Bank Building for a time at least, it was said. It is feared confusion may result from the change of name. The Third National bank was absorbed in the new First National Bank and gave up its old quarters.

Canton Interurban car crashed into an automobile at Hoover, east of here.

The dead are: Eva Hepfer, 21 years old; Albert Rafferty, Lucinda Barnes and two unidentified persons.

Look Out Behind!

The rear end is where trouble often starts. There friction runs rampant, and grinding, squeaking gears clamor loudly for Dixon's.

Friction and noise can't exist where Dixon's is at work.

DIXON'S Gear LUBRICANT

For differential and transmission use Dixon's 677. Also the famous Dixon's Cup Grease and other Dixon's lubricants.

It smooths over the invisible rough spots on gear and bearing surfaces with a protecting film that means—more power—less noise—fewer repairs—lower upkeep—a quieter, easier running car.

Dixon's can't "squeeze out" under pressure. And it takes the weather as it comes. No congealing or breaking up like plain grease and oil. If you're half as particular about your lubrication as you are about your tires, you'll use Dixon's.

Your dealer has it in convenient red cans.

Many Desirable Features Have Placed

Women's Athletic Union Suits

on the Highway to Popularity

IT is surprising to see how generally the Athletic Union Suit has been tried and accepted by women. But when you consider how comfortable, inexpensive, yet attractive it is—and how easily it may be laundered—the reasons are found.

They are intensely practical garments, although they may be secured in soft, sheer, cool fabrics. While suitable for wear at all times, for sports wear unequalled comfort is afforded.

They have large armholes, well-fitting lines and an elastic inset in the back.

A splendid assortment includes these Union Suits priced at $1.75, $2, $2.25, $2.75

In crossbar material, with regulation shoulder or bodice top; white or flesh $2.75

The case of John Lincoln of Christopher, Ill., against Dr. Samuel Randle of East St. Louis, charged with working a confidence game, was dismissed Saturday afternoon in a Belleville Justice Court. An agreement was reached by which $925

RESERVE BOARD SEES NO RELIEF FROM HIGH PRICES

Conditions Responsible for Cost of Living Unchanged and Production Only Slightly Increased.

WAGES FALL BEHIND ADVANCE IN PRICES

Movement From Farm to City Continues — "Store Sales" Looked To as Factor That May Shake Price Levels.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Despite the recent reductions in prices, little relief from the general reign of high prices is seen by the Federal Reserve Board in its analysis of May business conditions made public last night. The board expressed the view that there has been no change in the underlying conditions responsible for the high cost of living. Asserting that while "store sales" and a tendency to lower prices bear witness to the presence of "disturbing factors," which suggest the advent of wide alteration in price levels, the board declares it cannot accept the situation as a whole for its face value. The explanation is added that there had been only a slight increase in production and there is no greater disposition on the part of the general public to economize and invest than had ruled heretofore.

"The changes that have taken place, therefore," the board's analysis says, "cannot be looked upon as indicating a modification of underlying conditions." They may, however, afford a basis for changes in business relationships that may broaden into more far-reaching alteration of the essential price structure.

Business Suffers From Freight Jam.

Business in every section of the country has suffered considerable from the freight jam which has prevented normal movement of products to markets. Effects of the tie-up noticed in the agricultural districts as much as the industrial areas and farmers are not the smallest class which has sought more bank help in the way of credit as a result.

Results of the board's action in the direction of restricted loans already begun to be evident, according to reports of the various reserve banks. In addition to a general reduction in the value as well as volume of securities traded in the financial centers, there has been a general revision of interest rates affecting both commercial paper and call money, it is stated.

The labor situation during the month has been one of the outstanding problems of "doubt and difficulty" and is one of the larger problems with which the country is expected to have to deal with the rest of the summer. In addition to intense shortage of farm labor and at other points of primary production sporadic strikes have occurred in many lines of manufacturing, indicating in the board's view, continued unrest.

Wages Fall Behind Price Advances.

"Wages apparently have fallen behind the advance in prices and the cost of living," the statement continues. "The movement of labor from farm to city is continuing. General complaint of low efficiency or small output per unit of labor is prevalent and the difficulty of getting skilled labor in some of the more highly developed lines of manufacture is very considerable."

The disturbing factors have materially affected many lines of manufacturing, although general manufacturing continues in substantial volume. Cancellations of orders in both cotton and wool, by the jobbing and retail trade, have not yet reached large proportions, but they are "already noticeable." This has resulted in some manufacturers being forced to "make concessions to retailers" who were described as being "quite unsettled." The same situation was said to obtain in the leather trade.

With respect to conditions, local, to the various reserve districts, the review said:

"No. 1 (Boston)—There is noted a trend toward greater discrimination and economy in buying, with pressure for lower prices, but also very great difficulty in the way of actual deflation.

Cost of Operation Growing.

"No. 2 (New York)—Price reductions are noted in retail stores, a considerable accumulation of goods awaiting shipment resulting from strikes, a growth in the cost of doing business, great reduction in securities prices, but nevertheless a continued high demand for goods, and activity in trade.

"No. 3 (Philadelphia)—Congestion of freight and accompanying conditions have combined with a quiet state of things in the markets and a large relative public demand for medium and lower priced goods, to alter in some respects the general drift of development of preceding months.

"No. 4 (Cleveland)—An orderly movement back toward a more solid and substantial footing is noted. Business conditions are said to be fundamentally sound.

"No. 5 (Richmond)—Unrest and uncertainty in commercial fields have continued, and agitation against high prices has led to some curtailment in

Nurses Attracted by Cries at 4 A. M.
A baby girl, apparently about 2 weeks old, in a white dress and wrapped in a pink and blue blanket, was found on the steps of the Methodist Orphan's Home, 4355 Maryland avenue, at 4 a. m. today, when nurses heard cries.

On one of the blankets a note was pinned. It read: "Please care for my fatherless baby. An unfortunate mother." The baby was taken to the city hospital.

CAT BITES SLEEPING BOY'S TOE

Milton Roth, 12 years old, of 3218 Easton avenue, awoke in his bed at 2 a. m. today found the family cat, chewing on the great toe of his right foot. Other members of the family chased the cat to the cellar. The boy, taken to the city dispensary, was found to have been bitten three times.

He was ordered to take special treatment for the wounds and the cat ordered held in the home for 10 days for observation.

KILLS SELF AFTER

SHOOTING HIS WIFE

Ice Wagon Driver Ends Life at Home of Brother—Wife Had Refused to Return to Him.

William Schueren, 28 years old, an ice wagon driver, shot and killed himself at the home of his brother, Otto, 4341 St. Louis avenue, at 7:15 last night, a few minutes after he had shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, Helen, who had separated from him some time ago and has since been living with her brother, James Phelan, at 4237 W. Lexington avenue.

At the city hospital Mrs. Schueren stated that Schueren went to the Phelan home at 7 p. m., called her into an inside room and pleaded with her to return to him for the sake of their 5-year-old son, Melville. When she refused, she said, he drew a revolver, shot her through the left breast and fled from the house.

He went directly to the home of his brother and, after drinking a cup of coffee, remarked that he was going to leave in an instant, and walked into the parlor. An instant later Otto Schueren heard a shot fired and found his brother dead on the floor with a bullet wound in his head.

Police records showed that the trouble between William Schueren and his wife started on Feb. 20, when Schueren ejected his wife from their residence at 3612A North Newstead avenue and began to break up the furniture after he had barricaded himself in the house. When the police forced an entrance, Schueren informed them he had drunk mercury tablets dissolved in water. After a month's treatment at the city hospital, he was summoned to police court and fined $500.

WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK WAS WIDOW WITH TWO CHILDREN

Mrs. Johanna Smith, Cook at Taussig School, Was Struck at Grand and Market.

Mrs. Johanna Smith, 35 years old, of 4049 North Broadway, a widow with two small children, was the woman who was killed by an automobile truck at Grand and Market street at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, the body being identified at the morgue yesterday by her mother, Mrs. Carrie Hobbs of 4053 North Broadway, who had read the description of her in Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Smith, since the death of her husband, had been employed as a cook at the Taussig Open Air School, 1620 South Grand avenue. With a bundle of clothing for her children, she left the school to go home Saturday afternoon and was transferring from a Grand to a Market car when she was struck by a truck driven north in Grand avenue by Michael Ehrenreich, 1517 North Fourteenth street.

Ehrenreich told the police the woman was crossing from the east to the west side of Grand avenue, when, in the center of the street, an automobile going south caused Mrs. Smith to step back directly in the path of the truck. The wheels passed over her abdomen. Ehrenreich was released on a bond to appear at the coroner's inquest.

The death was the forty-third due to motor vehicle accidents since Jan. 1.

Gustavus L. Goetz, 84, Dead.
Gustavus L. Goetz, 84 years old, Civil War veteran and for 50 years a member of the choir of St. Peter and Paul's Church, died yesterday at his home, 1842 South Eighth street. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Amerika, a German-language newspaper, and formerly was secretary of the Helmbach Forge and Rolling Mills Co.

publishing. Collections are good, and the most serious cloud is the traffic outlook.

"No. 6 (Atlanta)—The peak of high prices has been reached in most lines and the tendency is downward, while there is some indication of reduction in stocks of goods.

"No. 7 (Chicago)—Decided readjustment in economic conditions is anticipated, one factor being growth of indications of general reductions of prices. The transportation and associated difficulties noted elsewhere in the country appear to be especially acute in the Chicago district, while the labor situation shows small improvement.

St. Louis Business Enormous.

"No. 8 (St. Louis)—The volume of business is enormous. The total in both manufacturing and distribution showing broad gains over the corresponding period last year. The peak of the upward movement is, however, believed to be reached. Production conditions have been unfavorable agriculturally.

"No. 9 (Minneapolis)—Crop conditions are promising. The demand for credit is very strong and the business outlook is satisfactory, although there is disposition to be cautious.

"No. 10 (Kansas City)—During April there was the first real recession from the high tide of activity of the past year or more. There has been a curtailed movement of livestock and grain resulting from bad transportation conditions, accompanied by severe financial hardships upon producers and shippers. Retail trade has slowed down, but the general situation is regarded as one of encouragement, although more or less unsettled conditions are expected to prevail during readjustment.

"No. 11 (Dallas)—There has been a slowing up of agricultural, business and financial operations, which, however, has had some beneficial effect. Prices have continued upward, but the falling off in demand has affected largely the higher priced articles. There is recognition of a healthy spirit of caution among bank borrowers and users of capital.

"No. 12 (San Francisco)—The prospects for good crops are better than at any time this year, although the season is late. Car shortage has hurt lumbering, building has been less active, and retail trade has fallen off slightly as compared with a month ago."

Stabbing Pains of Gout, Lumbago and Rheumatism

Only those who have suffered with dread rheumatism, gout, lumbago and sciatica realize the torture of these diseases, or the stubbornness with which they resist treatment. When these conditions are neglected they sometimes become incurable.

If you have ever suffered from the sharp twinges and inflammation which indicate a rheumatic condition, you had better begin now and take those acid poisons out of your blood. Rheumatic and gouty troubles are now known to be caused by an acid poison in the blood which can only be eliminated by an internal treatment. Rubbing and hot applications only temporarily stop the pain.

Prescription C-2223 is a preparation that will eliminate those poisons which will eventually cause you excruciating pain. It will prevent your being depressed or crippled in later years, which may happen if you don't do something right away.

The manufacturers are so certain that Prescription C-2223 will relieve you that they authorize all druggists to return the $3.00 which are paid for two $1.50 bottles to those who are not satisfied with the benefit received.

To secure the best results from the use of Prescription C-2223, 2223 Liver Pills are recommended. These stimulate the liver, regulate the bowels.

Will not nauseate or grip. If your druggist cannot supply you with Prescription C-2223, one $1.50 bottle and bottle of pills will be sent you postpaid on receipt of $1.75. Write Dept. 125, Laboratory, Minneapolis, Tenn., for 1920 Almanac, literature and sample of pills.

NORMAL SWITCHING SERVICE BY RAILROAD DURING STRIKE

Cotton Belt Reports Service at Florida Street and East St. Louis Terminals Uninterrupted.

The Cotton Belt railroad calls attention, in a statement issued today, to the fact that it has maintained uninterrupted service, at its Florida street freight warehouse and team tracks, since the switchmen's strike began April 8. Up to and including May 19, it is stated, the Cotton Belt handled 488 cars more in 19 days in and out of the East St. Louis terminals than were handled during the entire month of May, 1919. Normal service has been maintained at the East St. Louis terminals, which were completed and opened for use April 1.

Normal handling of terminal operations has been accomplished by switching crews composed of officers of the company, who have not only performed switching service in their own yards, but have maintained a regular transfer service, going into the yards of other companies to get carload traffic destined to points on or via their lines. They have also done a considerable amount of industrial switching on the tracks of large industries.

MAN, SHOT, ACCUSES ANOTHER HE HAD ASKED FOR MONEY OWING

Antonio Gazzaro, 27 years old, 1912 Blair avenue, was shot in the chest at 11:30 o'clock last night in an alley behind his home. The bullet penetrated his lung and surgeons at the city hospital said that his condition was critical.

Ricco Leoni, 28 years old, 1418 North Fourteenth street, was arrested and was identified by Gazzaro as the man who had done the shooting. Leoni denied it.

Gazzaro informed the police that he met Leoni at 8 o'clock last night and demanded $10 which, he said, Leoni had owed him for some time.

FILM 'TREASURE ISLAND' A FINE PRODUCTION

Shackleton South Pole Pictures at New Grand Central Also a Notable Feature.

Maurice Tourneur, that master of romanticism and scenic and lighting effects, has turned out a great production in his film version of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," which opened yesterday for a week's run at the Kings Theater. This immortal story in its literary form was an almost perfect scenario. It formed very definite pictures in the minds of thousands of readers, young and old, before motion pictures were thought of. The film version seems to be the best attainable composite of these mental pictures. Stevenson's plot has been followed with remarkable fidelity and the cast is far above the average. The boy, Jim Hawkins, who thwarts the grim and cruel mutineers on the expedition to find lost treasure, is impersonated by a young woman star, Shirley Mason.

Miss Mason brings to the part a rare intelligence of the spiritual qualities which made up for the young hero's lack of physical strength in his combat with brute force. Though Stevenson himself might not have selected a feminine interpreter for this part, the choice of the director seems fully justified. Certainly no rough-and-ready hero of the "Freckles" type would have filled the bill so well.

In the cast also are Lon Chaney in the double role of "Pew" and "Mercury," Bull Montana as "Morgan" and Charles Ogle as "Long John Silver." The settings and the marine scenes are beautiful and the battle with the mutineers for possession of the treasure ship is a real thriller.

Notable Shackleton Film. The New Grand Central has a notable feature in "The Bottom of the World," which is an actual film record of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition to the South Pole. The entire journey is well covered in the pictures, from the time the expedition set out from Buenos Aires in the good ship Endurance, which remained good until it was crushed in an ice-pack in the antarctic. The destruction of the ship and the escape of the crew in a small boat are shown in the pictures, as well as many events which occurred while the pole hunters drifted about on an ice floe for 10 months before being rescued. These ice pictures are good warm weather entertainment. On the bill also is Mildred Harris Chaplin in "Polly of the Storm Country."

Ethel Clayton in "Tangle" Play. At the West End Lyric and Lyric Skydome the leading attraction is Ethel Clayton in "A Lady in Love." This is one of those "tangle" dramas in which the heroine, of course through no fault of her own, gets in a terrible mixup from which it seems she will never be extricated. She is trapped into a mock marriage with the villain, but Harrison Ford in the role of a good young lawyer sets everything right and wins her love.

This is Shirley Mason's week. Much different from her role in "Treasure Island" is her part in "Love's Harvest," which is the leading feature at the Liberty. In this play her father wills her to a man she has never seen. The story is reminiscent of both "Daddy Long Legs" and "Pollyanna." On the bill also is George Walsh in "The Dead Line," a Kentucky feud story which gives him much latitude in exploiting the deeds of strength and daring which have made him famous.

Viola Dana in "Dangerous to Men," in which she assumes the role of a "baby vamp" to save her adopted father from the wiles of a designing actress, offers light but amusing entertainment. It went on yesterday at the Pershing, Mozart and Royal.

TWO MEN SEVERELY BEATEN WHEN THIRD USES IRON BAR Injured Men Say Contractor Started Argument Over Subdivision Work.

Joseph Bollinger, 54 years old, of 4040 Olive street, a contractor, and Harry Klink, 47, of 119 North Ninth street, a private watchman, were severely beaten in a fight last night at Goodfellow and Florissant avenues. Bollinger was taken to the Baptist Hospital suffering from cuts on the head and face and the loss of several teeth. Klink was struck on the shoulder with an iron bar.

Bollinger told the police that he and Klink had fought with Joseph McMahon, a steam shovel operator, connected with the J. T. McMahon Construction Co., and that the latter used a three-foot bar of iron as a weapon.

Bollinger said that he was in conversation with Klink when McMahon drove up in an automobile with two women and another man and started an argument about some subdivision work that was being done in the neighborhood. He said he told McMahon he did not care to quarrel in the presence of women and that McMahon drove on, but returned on foot carrying the bar of iron.

200 DUTCH FARMERS ARRIVE IN U. S. TO HELP IN HARVEST Kansas Wheat Grower Says Grain Will Be Lost Unless Labor Can Be Turned From Cities.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Two hundred Dutch farmers, who will help harvest the wheat crop in the Middle West during the coming summer, arrived yesterday on the Holland-American Line steamship Rotterdam from Rotterdam, Holland. They will go from here to Minnesota, North and South Dakota and other states in the wheat belt.

George W. Rigby of Concordia, Kan., an extensive wheat grower, who witnessed the arrival of the farmers at the Ellis Island immigration station, declared he could place 500 to 600 men in the harvest fields at wages from $5 to $7 a day. In some sections of Kansas, he said, grain already is ripening, but it will be falling down in the field unless "the tide of labor should turn toward the cities." The Kansas wheat crop, Rigby said, is estimated at 110,000,000 bushels this year, as compared with 143,000,000 bushels in 1919.

The Last Week of School

The strain of approaching examinations, coupled with the hot weather and the excitement of a promised vacation, make plenty of wholesome nourishment for the children more necessary than ever before. The best and safest way to supply it is with good, reliable home baking done with Valier's Enterprise Flour.

Valier's Enterprise Flour

is milled from none but the finest hard wheat even though we must pay a high premium for every bushel we buy. Special care is taken to preserve all the unusual baking qualities of this selected wheat, and repeated sifting through silk adds remarkable fineness.

The resulting flour, while it is slightly higher priced in the sack, is economical in the end. It produces better, more uniformly successful baking and terdam from Rotterdam, Holland. They will go from here to Minnesota, North and South Dakota and other states in the wheat belt.

George W. Rigby of Concordia, Kan., an extensive wheat grower, who witnessed the arrival of the farmers at the Ellis Island immigration station, declared he could place 500 to 600 men in the harvest fields at wages from $5 to $7 a day. In some sections of Kansas, he said, grain already is ripening, but it will be falling down in the field unless "the tide of labor should turn toward the cities." The Kansas wheat crop, Rigby said, is estimated at 110,000,000 bushels this year, as compared with 143,000,000 bushels in 1919.

ROBBER IDENTIFIED AS DAYLIGHT HOLDUP MAN

Youth Caught in Chase From Shoe Store Said to Be One Who Robbed Bell Co.

Joseph Resnick, 17 years old, 1412
Blair avenue, alias Samuel Rubin, arrested at 10 a. m. yesterday after a chase from a shoe store which he had robbed a few minutes before, has been identified as one of three men who participated in a daylight holdup of the Imperial Belt Manufacturing Co., on the sixth floor of 803 Washington avenue, May 10. At that time $208 was taken from the cashier, Miss Pauline Cornwall, who has identified Resnick as one of the robbers.

Resnick was caught at Twenty-third and Pine streets after running from the store of David Solomon, 2024 Franklin avenue. Resnick had entered the store about 9:30 o'clock and asked to see a pair of shoes. As Solomon reached for the shoes on a shelf, Resnick drew a revolver and demanded Solomon's money, taking $9 and a watch from his pockets, and Solomon says, $19 from the cash register.

He ran from the store, pursued by Morris Dick, 427 1/2 Labadie avenue, a clerk, going west on Franklin to Twenty-first street, where he stopped and fired a shot at Dick, then turned into Twenty-first. The shot attracted a crowd, which joined the chase. Over to Locust, west, to Twenty-second, then south to Olive and through a hallway at 2221 Olive street the youth ran. Patrolmen Waymer and Lenox taking up the pursuit en route.

When overtaken at Twenty-third and Pine streets, the watch and $9 were found on Resnick, but the $19 was not found, and Resnick denied taking any money from the register.

He led the policemen back to the hallway on Olive street where his revolver was found, hidden in an empty paint bucket. Four chambers were loaded, and one contained an empty shell.

Solomon identified Resnick as the man who had robbed him, and he then was taken to the Carr Street station, where, during the afternoon, he confessed to the holdup of the Imperial Co. In that robbery three men entered the elevator, went up to the sixth floor, forced the elevator man to accompany them, and took $208 from the cashier. Resnick said that he took the money, later dividing with the others. He gave the police information concerning them.

A warrant charging robbery was issued against Resnick
May 15 on the Imperial Co. holdup, and is still pending. Another will be sought on the shoe store holdup yesterday.

CHANCELLOR URGES GERMANS TO PROVE THEY WANT PEACE

Must Never Let Fool, Crowned or Uncrowned, Drag Nation Into War
for Revenge, He Says.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, May 31.—Speaking at a somewhat stormy meeting in Munich on Saturday, Chancellor Mueller declared to a cheering crowd that on June 6, the day of the German presidential election, it would be Germany's business to attest the fact "that she has had enough of war for all eternity and that no fool, crowned or uncrowned, shall drag Germany into a war of revenge," according to a report of his address in the Tageblatt yesterday.

"Foreigners," continued Dr. Mueller, "have told me they could not believe it possible that the frame of mind of the German people could be changed in so short a time, but after the Kapp coup even the Entente military officers admitted to me the conviction that they had become truly democratic."

When the Chancellor said he did not believe a coalition government to be an ideal one but that he would not countenance hand grenades as a political argument, a group of independent Socialists broke out with a storm of interruptions, but general applause greeted his declaration that a minority could not be permitted to impose a dictatorship.

"Germany," declared the Chancellor, "can live only as a republic."

EXPLOSION TEARS HOLE IN FLOOR AT HOME OF WIDOW

Several Windows in the Neighborhood of 1214 North Sixth Street
Also Shattered.

An explosion in the hallway of the home of Mrs. Salvatore Specuzzi, 1214 North Sixth street, a widow, at 1:15 o'clock this morning, tore a small hole in the flooring and shattered several windows in the neighborhood, including nine panes in the front part of St. Patrick's parochial school and day nursery across the street.

Mrs. Specuzzi told the police that she believed the explosion was caused by a bomb. She said that she received a letter a year ago demanding $5000, but destroyed it without saying anything to the police about it.

Her husband, who died seven years ago, was a fruit dealer, and she is the owner of a row of two-story brick houses, in one of which she resides. Her three daughters and three sons, all of whom are married, are her tenants.

Four Sisters of Charity were asleep in the building occupied by the parochial school, but no one was injured. The damage was estimated at $200.

STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS IN IRISH SITUATION FORECAST

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 31.—The National

News says: "The position in Ireland we understand is so grave that a number of warships are being fitted out in 'shamrock' for dispatch to Irish ports. The situation is more serious than would appear from published telegrams, and startling developments are expected in the next few days. In the present temper of the Sinn Feiners it is not unlikely they will make a last effort against the forces of law and order."

PRODUCTION OF RAW SILK IN JAPAN TO BE REDUCED

Two More Small Banks Close and Others Experience Heavy Withdrawals.

TOKIO, May 31.—Developments in the troubled situation in some quarters of the financial and commercial world of Japan include the suspension of two small banks at Yokosuka and heavy withdrawals by depositors from other banks in the provinces which have dealings with the raw silk interests.

An attempt was made last Friday to reopen the Yokosuka Silk Exchange, but with the supply increasing and with foreign demand virtually at a standstill prices declined sharply and business was again suspended.

The raw silk dealers have decided to reduce production.

CO-OPERATIVE UNION OF LABOR MEN ORGANIZED

Will Sell Food, Clothing and Other Commodities Slightly Above Cost.

The American Co-operative Union of St. Louis, the purpose of which is to engage in wholesale and retail distribution of food, clothing and other commodities at prices slightly above cost, was organized on a permanent basis at a meeting of the Central Trades and Labor Union at 2228 Olive street yesterday afternoon.

A constitution providing that the stores shall be operated under the common law was adopted. The initiation fee for membership, which will be limited to trades unionists, was fixed at $10. Loans to the union will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per year, and all profits over 25 per cent. will be divided among members in proportion to the amounts of their purchases at the stores.

The stores will do business on a strictly cash basis and will be open to the public. Preference will be given to union-made products in the purchase of stock.

$20,000 Is Pledged.

It was announced at the meeting that $20,000 had been pledged to the movement and that the amount would be increased to at least $60,000 within the next two weeks, when the various locals represented in the Central Trades and Labor Union have acted on the matter.

Members may deposit funds in excess of the $10 initiation fee with the co-operative union, the same as they do in savings banks, and the funds will draw interest. These funds may be withdrawn subject to regulations of the Board of Trustees.

Members will be given credit at the stores up to the amount of money they have on deposit. The actual operation of the stores will be in the hands of union employees.

Officers Are Named.

The following officers were elected: Joseph Kinney, Walcott Union, president; L. H. Proske, Carpenters' Union, secretary; and S. E. Snyder, Photoengravers' Union, treasurer. The following were chosen to serve as a Board of Trustees: T. J. Burke, Engineers' Union; E. C. Clay, Engineers' Union; Miss Mary Noonan, Shoeworkers' Union; Peter Belsel, Bakers' Union; Joseph F. CAMPAIGN TO PREVENT FIRES

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Co-operation of smokers in a campaign against careless use of fire in national and private forests has been asked by Secretary Meredith in a letter sent to seven of the largest tobacco companies. Smokers are annually responsible for a large number of fires in timber areas, the letter pointed out.

Suggestion was made that the tobacco companies include in tobacco packages "brief printed legends" urging smokers to take every precaution to prevent spread of fire from matches or burning tobacco.

Old Hickory in the Garden

There is something eminently suitable in the use of natural hickory in making out-of-door furniture. Rain, sun, heat nor cold damage it, and it resists time, even among these elements, better than any furniture of which we know.

In less formal surroundings, this rustic furniture has a positive place, and we have provided for your choosing any and everything the makers of this far-famed furniture create.

There are commodious summer houses, bowered swings, rocking chairs, tables, straight chairs, arm chairs, settees, etc.—all so substantial, so satisfactory in every way and above all, quite reasonably priced.

The Memory of Its Goodness Lingers

Rich, delicious St. Louis Dairy Company's Ice Cream, served plain or with fresh crushed fruit, is not only delightfully refreshing, but healthful as well.

Its purity and smoothness make it doubly palatable. One portion hardly satisfies the normal appetite.

Thousands of St. Louis people order it by name, because they are then certain of highest quality. Only the finest materials go into its making, while the most sanitary precautions are exercised in keeping it pure.

St. Louis Dairy Company's ice cream meets both the state and federal butterfat standard of fourteen per cent. Be sure to order it by the full name, St. Louis Dairy Company's Ice Cream. You'll then be certain of getting the genuine.

Buy All That You Need NOW

The Present Price Decline Existing on Certain Classes of Merchandising Is but Temporary According to Authorities.

We strongly advise that you act on the above statement of facts. Never was there a better time to anticipate your requirements than now—during our Price-Reduction Sales. Conditions that were almost disastrous to manufacturers and wholesalers forced them to dispose of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise at sacrifice prices. We made extremely profitable purchases due to these conditions, and every advantage we secured in price is now passed on to our patrons.

These and many items not advertised here are designated by the special Price-Reduction Sales Tickets posted throughout the store. Look for them!

PROVIDENCE

by Will Payne

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

POP FARRELL, the exchange editor, had brought her into the newspaper office, she being the daughter of an impoverished friend of his, then lately deceased in a state of lamentable insolvency, leaving a widow and three children—of whom Elizabeth, or Bessie—was the eldest, to make such shift as they could through the world. Pop Farrell, it seemed, had suggested that the eldest might earn a livelihood in a newspaper office under his tutelage; and he had one day come lumbering into Hinton's room with a request that Miss Elizabeth Poole be employed as his assistant on the exchange desk. As the exchange desk needed an assistant then, and as Hinton had confidence in the exchange editor's judgment, he would have granted the request anyway; but when he saw that the exchange editor had a paternal solicitude for this Miss Elizabeth Poole he was glad to do it, for, like everyone else around the place, he had a whimsical, abiding sort of affection for Pop Farrell.

So Bessie Poole came into the office, and that was a pleasant, even a fragrant, fact in Hinton's mind. She evidently hadn't been brought up with the idea of earning her livelihood in any manner, and she evidently wanted very much to be accepted without reservations as a member of this journalistic family. You have, no doubt, seen a nice, friendly little child wanting to put a strange, shaggy dog and feeling doubtful as to how the dog may take it. That was more or less Elizabeth's attitude toward the men in this strange cage—just wanting to be nice and friendly to everybody. Some of the young men in the local room felt harmlessly in love with her. The city editor's desk was in the corner of that room, not far from the door to Pop Farrell's belittled den and the door was usually open. Naturally, the city editor would be having Bessie Poole more or less under his eye. And within a year the local room awoke, with surprise, to a realization that the city editor was very decidedly having her under his eye. But it was Bessie herself—just by a little confidential word of mouth to one and another—who let them know she was going to marry the city editor. Herbert Wells observed, in thoughtful surprise, that he guessed she had concluded old Tom needed marrying.

It was a surprise. The city editor was 10 years her senior, and not much to look at—moreover a laborious, tread-mill kind of person. When there were quite a number of younger, sprightlier, handsomer male persons about it did seem surprising. "Old Tom," as they called him in confidential affection, hadn't seemed the man to whom that kind of a thing would come—slow, some way, and lonesome and patient and toilsome. But later they realized a kind of fitness in it that couldn't exactly be explained. It did seem, in an inexplicable way, that if anybody in the world needed bright, sweet Bessie Poole, it was exactly Old Tom.

All that was in Hinton's mind, and Mrs. Tom Cochran herself—smiling a little—when he said, "Sure I know her!" in that positive way.

"There was no reason in the world," said the slow city editor, in simple candor, "why she should have stood for me. But she did. Probably you know I married when I was 22."

Hinton did know it, as an inconsiderable and inconsequential fact, and nodded. "I was living in Omaha then, and not earning very much—trying to do space work, you know." He smiled faintly as one acknowledges a useful joke on himself. "We were poor enough; sometimes a loaf of bread would have come in handy. We had a little boy, 3 years old. My wife went over to Iowa to visit her people. There was an excursion, with low rates. She and the boy lost their lives in a train wreck. I thought I'd never marry again." He wetted his lips again and put up a hand to feel of his chin. "I hadn't been much good to them, you know. Well, Bessie came in here. It was sort of ridiculous for her to marry me, but she didn't think so. We were married; but just before that—about two weeks before—Tower came in here." He regarded the editor a moment—a just man, not wishing to accuse anyone wrongfully, and added: "I guess you didn't know Tower."

Another picture came up in the editor's mind—his special writer, handsome in that oddly feminine way, dressed like a tailor's model, oozing conceit, showing his very white teeth under a dandified little brown mustache in a mechanical smile. "I knew him enough," he growled. "I was a fool to tolerate him here."

A great perplexity showed in Cochran's eyes and he rubbed his brow. "I lay awake nearly all last night thinking this over, Mr. Hinton," he said. "I think I understand it now, but I don't believe I could explain it so you would understand it—because it was all in the air and because, probably, you wouldn't believe that of me. Tower used to saunter back to the local room every now and then in the afternoon, you know. He was older than anybody there except me. He wanted to show off. He'd talk about well-known men and women in town as though they were intimate friends of his—call 'em by their first names or nicknames. I suppose he did go around a good deal and had some acquaintance with prominent people—and picked up the gossip. He did it to impress us, you know, with what a devil of a fellow he was. He'd speak of Freddie Tyson as though Tyson would speak the paper over to him if he said so.

"Of course, there was no harm in all that—just a concocted fellow showing off. But it was the way he talked about women. I never heard such abominable talk about women in my life. He'd mention names and all that. It was all as much as to say that he had only to wink at any woman and she'd come along. It made me mighty sore on general principles, and especially his talking that way to the boys, some of 'em just youngsters. Two or three times I had a good mind to tell him to cut that stuff out or keep out of the local room. But you know how it is—a fellow don't like to set up for a saint and look foolish. So I kept my mouth shut.

"She was nice to him as she was to everybody."

"He sauntered in one afternoon. That was about 3:30, I think, when the day's work was about done and everybody was going home. Three or four of the boys were hanging around and I had some work to finish up. Bessie had come in there. She had her coat on, but not her hat. She was talking to me and Herbert Wells at my desk. Well, Tower sauntered in. It was the first time he had seen her. She didn't see him, for she was looking the other way. He saw her and stopped dead looking at her—well, as though he found her very good to look at. That part of it was open enough. And he looked around at young Wilkins and somebody else as though he were sort of demanding an explanation of a girl like Bessie being there. And young Wilkins stepped up and introduced him to her.

"She was nice to him, as she was to everybody, and he followed her back into the exchange room, where she put on her hat. We could hear her laughing. They were in there may be five or 10 minutes and Bessie went out and Tower came back into the local room, fixing his mustache with the end of his finger in that way he had and showing his teeth." The city editor paused a moment and confessed, with humility, "Somehow, I always hated the fellow's white teeth. Well, he came back with that self-satisfied air and says 'The lady pleases me.'

"Now, nobody could find any fault with his saying that—only the way he said it, and the sort of fellow he was and the way he talked about women. It would make anybody mad; but there was nothing anybody could take up about it—without looking like a fool. That was 10 days before we were married. After that every day or so until we were married and she left the office, he would come back and talk to her—sit on the corner of the desk. Of course, somebody told him right away that she was going to marry me. I could tell by the way he looked at me, and his air toward me, that he felt that a kind of insult to me, that a girl like Bessie was going to marry a chap like me—as though he couldn't stand for that."

The city editor's voice showed increasing tension and he wetted his dry lips again. "I thought it over nearly all last night, Mr. Hinton," he repeated. "I understand it, but it's hard to explain. You see, it was all in the air—all in suggestion—with nothing anywhere that a fellow could really take up without looking foolish. I knew he talked to some of the boys—young Wilkins and some others—about her. I know he did. I could feel it. I could see it in their looks and their air towards me. It was in the air. He was acting his part toward me all the time—suggesting it all the time. It was just as though he had said to them, 'I'll take this young woman as a subject and show you how the spell works.' It was just as though he had stepped up to my desk and put his hand on my shoulder and said to everybody, 'Watch me walk off with this chump's wife.' Yet there wasn't anything at all that a man could take up. I don't know as I can explain it. He was acting the part all the time—doing everything he could to get them to think wrong and to get me to think wrong, as though he had a grudge against me for marrying her and against her for marrying me; as though that was an open humiliation to him.

"One day, for example, he came back into the local room with a note in his hand. It looked like a note from a woman and as though he had just got it. He was reading it as he came in; and he looked up in that snug way and says, 'Well, she says she'll come.' And then he talked a minute or two about women—that any of 'em will come if they're only invited right, and so on. I was working at the time and not looking up or paying any attention—although I had to hear what he was saying. He walked over to my desk and clapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Cheer up, old man! You look downcast!' and laughed. Nothing in that that a fellow could take up, you see, but it was all part of the role he was playing. I knew well enough how the boys took it—especially young Wilkins and some others. I couldn't help knowing. You see, he was building up that air around me all the time—getting everybody to think wrong. It went on.

"Two or three times he talked to a woman over the telephone in the local room—intimate kind of talk. Once he said, 'All right, Bess; I'll be there.' All the time he was talking about women in that abominable way. And he was talking to young Wilkins and some others about her. I could see it in their eyes."

Cochran put a hand up to his brow again. "She wanted to be nice and friendly to everybody. She was nice to him. I suppose a nice woman can't understand a fellow like him. Don't see through 'em as a man does. For one thing, he wouldn't talk to a woman as he talked before me. She didn't understand. And yet, I think he must have got some sort of hold over her, some way or other, or even she wouldn't have acted as she did. I tried to think it all out last night, and that's the way it seemed to me. For she was friendlier toward him than she really needed to be on general principles. He came up to our flat sometimes. And she did meet him sometimes—taking lunch with him twice. I'm sure. You see, three times this last three weeks, he brought her up to the newspaper office—walking into the local room with her as though he were handing her back to me.

"All that helped out the part he was playing before the boys—and before me. I suppose he is plausible and more or less entertaining with women—a lot of gossip to tell and all that. Probably he can be what they'd call good company. Probably a nice woman wouldn't see any harm in going with him. And yet, I think he must have got some hold over her or she wouldn't have been as friendly to him as she was. That's the way I thought it out.

"You see, Mr. Hinton, I wouldn't say anything. I knew he was trying to make me think wrong and the fellows around me think wrong, too. He was trying to build up that air. And I hated like sin to see her even speak to him—knowing him as I did. But I wouldn't say anything. When she married me I didn't at all deserve it. It was like giving a million dollars to a beggar. I said that whatever she did was going to be just exactly right—exactly right to a hair. I wasn't going to suggest that anything at all was less than just right. If a beggar's been given a million dollars his business is to be grateful, and not to act as though he thought he ought to have a million dollars and fifty cents. Whatever she did was going to be just right; I wouldn't say a word to her.

"Of course, I saw what Tower was trying to do—knew he was talking to the boys and all that. And I said I'd pay no attention to it—not let it influence my thought at all—just throw it out of my mind and keep it out. He was playing a part, but he couldn't make me play the other part."

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND.

THE saddest hour of romance is that in which a man begins to think of his wife's voice as a combination alarm-clock, dinner-gong and curfew.

The appropriate "shower" for the June bridegroom appears to be a shower of advice, sympathy, awful predictions, and home-made "prayers" from his loving bachelor friends.

Many a man has turned a third-rate stenographer into a first-class cook, merely by offering her a wedding ring.

Oh, well, thanks to the Eighteenth Amendment, lots of wives will be taken abroad this summer who would otherwise have lived and died without ever seeing the Eiffel Tower or the Rue de la Paix.

Possession is nine points of the lovegame—and the tenth is boredom.

To be a man's idol forever, wear your halo even at breakfast, and never remove the sandals of illusion from your feet of clay, no matter how they pinch.

At twenty to be lovely, at thirty to be loved, at forty to be lovable—that is the highest attainment of life for any woman.

After a few years of sentimental experience, it takes real technique for a girl to kiss like an amateur—and real diplomacy for a man to pretend not to know the difference.

Many a man, who believes in "giving the devil his due," would be less broad-minded if the devil were a woman.

"An exemplary young man" is one in whose presence it is perfectly safe for a pretty woman to crumple up her lips and blow the curls out of her eyes.

The last bona-fide maid-servant will soon be found in the Museum of Natural History, along with the Dinosaur and other specimens of extinct species.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

An Unwilling Pupil.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

A blessed thing it often is
For all of us, even you,
To be obliged to do a thing
We're sure we do not want to do.

ALL the way to school Peter Rabbit wondered who he and the others would learn about that day. He was so busy wondering that he became heedless. Peter is apt to be heedless at times. He was so busy thinking and wondering that he forgot to watch his steps. The result was that, as he hopped out of a bramble-tangle just within the Green Forest, he all but landed in something worse than the worst brambles that ever grew. It was only by a wild jump on one side that he saved himself. Peter had almost landed right in among the thousand and little spears of Prickly Pork the Porcupine!

"Gracious!" exclaimed Peter, "that was a narrow escape. What are you doing 'way over here, you prickly old slow-poke?"

"Why don't you look where you are going?" grunted Prickly Pork. It was plain that he was rather peevish. "It wouldn't be my fault if you had a few of my little spears sticking in you this very minute. It would serve you right. It is a great pity a fellow cannot walk along minding his own business without danger of being run into or jumped on by heedless harum-scurum chaps like you."

He waddled along a few steps and then began talking again, more to himself than to Peter. "I don't see what Old Mother Nature sent me for this morning. I hate a long walk. Yes, sir, I hate a long walk."

Peter pricked up his long ears. "I know!" he cried. "You are going to school, Prickly Pork. Old Mother Nature has sent for you to come to school. You are a Rodent, and I am a Rodent, and we are going to learn all about you this morning."

"I'm not a Rodent; I'm a Porcupine," grunted Prickly Pork indignantly. "You're a Rodent just the same," retorted Peter, glad of a chance to show his knowledge. "You've got big gnawing teeth, and anyone with teeth like those is a Rodent." Then, at a sudden thought, a funny look passed over his face and he added,

LOVE LETTERS OF THE CZARINA

BY ISAAC DON LEVINE.
ARTICLE 22—CZARINA OPPOSES REFORMS.

The Czarina's conservatism was dictated by her naive wish to hand the autocracy over to her son unimpaired by any reform whatever. This blind instinct was responsible for her hatred for such moderate reformers as Rozhanko and Gutchkov, the monarchist leaders of the Duma. It was the same instinct which made the Czarina fear any change of policy toward the oppressed nationalities. The Polish question caused her concern. The Poles had received assurances in 1914 that the Czar would restore their national autonomy. These assurances were quickly forgotten, but in 1916, during the great Russian advance on the southern front, the Poles began to clamor for the expression of a definite promise on the part of the Czar as to the restoration of Poland.

One of the leading Russian Poles, Count Wlaspolsky, realizing that the Czarina was the source of power in the Russian court, went to see her. The Czarina in her letter of July 22 confesses that she dreads the expected letter. Her advice is to "wait a bit, but in any case not to give too great liberties." The reason, of course, is that "otherwise when Baby's turn comes he will have very hard times to go through."

"Why, that means that you and I are related in a way," grunted Prickly Pork, still shuffling along. "Don't believe it," grunted Prickly Pork, still shuffling along. "Don't believe a word of it. Don't want to be related to anybody as heedless as you. What is this school, anyway? Don't want to go to school. Know all I want to know. Know how to get all I want to eat and how to make everybody get out of my way and leave me alone, and that's enough to know." He rattled the thousand little spears hidden in his coat and Peter shivered at the sound. It was a most unpleasant sound.

"Well, some folks do like to be stupid," snapped Peter. "I wouldn't be as stupid as you are for anything in the world. Folks who don't want to learn ought to be made to learn. Nature sent for you to come to school. You are a Rodent, and I am a Rodent, and we are going to learn all about you this morning."

With this Peter hurried on lipperty-lipperty-ly, leaving Prickly Pork to slowly shuffle and rattle and grunt along behind. All the others were there when Peter arrived. Prickly Pork wasn't even in sight. Old Mother Nature didn't wait. She has too much to do to waste even a minute. She called school to order at once.

great liberties." The reason, of course, is that "otherwise when Baby's turn comes he will have very hard times to go through."

Czarina Leaves Czar.

"Czar's Headquarters, July 12, 1916: My own beloved—Again goodbye, but thank God, not for long. But nevertheless I hate leaving you and Sunbunt. It's so lonely without you, and knowing your hard work and dreary life, makes it very sad. Thanks, my angel, for having let me be with you, for having sent for us it was a joy and gives strength again to continue. We have enjoyed our holiday and go back to our work. Thursday morning straight to dressings and then to receive the German and Austrian Sisters (I don't look forward to that). She has wired to Our Friend about the weather and I hope God will bless the front with sunshine. Please wire this evening how Tiny's temperature is and tomorrow morning. We reach Tarskoye Selo tomorrow evening at 8.

"Farewell my sunshine, by love. I fear our visit was too fleeting for you, so much running about and still your work to be done. I shall remember every caress with yearned longing.

"God bless and protect you, give you strength, courage, success. I cover you with endless, burning kisses. "Ever your very, very OWN."

Gets Letters From Germany.

"Tarskoye Selo, July 14, 1916. "My own beloved, precious One. "Such endless joy to receive your dear letter, and I thank you for it with all my fondly loving old heart. Sweetest, every tender word of yours is my greatest, deepest joy, and I carry it deep in my heart and live by it. Seems a dream, our journey Had to relate heaps in the hospital, all full of interest and wanting to know everything. The weather is very warm and a divine breeze, so that we are going for a drive. Just received six German and five Austrian sisters—real ladies, nothing like our bad selection which was sent. They brought me letters from home, and Irene and all send you their love. You must excuse a stupid letter, but am slightly gratified.

"Went early to bed and enjoyed a bath. Love, do say about Sukhomilov being let home, the doctors fear he will go mad if kept shut up any longer. Do think of kindness of your own sweet self. My Siberians were so happy over Sergei's telegram that they had succeeded again.

"I am so glad you took us everywhere; now we know how and where you spend your afternoons.

"Beloved angel, now good-by and God bless and keep you. I shall remember you with endless burning kisses and live in the past.

"Ever your very, very OWN."

News of Victories.

"Tarskoye Selo, July 16, 1916. "My very own Treasure.

"Warmest thanks for your sweet letter. Let me congratulate you with all my heart for the good news. What a surprise it was when Rita announced it to us this morning in the hospital—I had not had time to read the papers. Brod taken, how lucky—the straight line for Lemberg—and the break through begun. The good is coming, as our friend had said. I am so happy for you, a great consolation and recompense after all your anxiety and hard preparatory work! And how are the losses? Heart and soul are with you out there!

"I have Witte's report at 5 1/2, and tomorrow Sturmer, whom I must speak seriously to about the new Ministers. Alas, that Makarov has been chosen (again a man against your poor old wife and that brings no luck) and I must have our Friend guaranteed against them and Pittirim, too. Volzain does not act so wrongly. Pittirim chooses the man to be at the head of his church and Volzain forbids it; he has no right to do so.

"Goodby my One and All, my Huzy Love, my precious Sunshine, I miss and yearn for you. "Ever your very, very OWN."

TO THE CZAR IN WAR TIME

The End of the War.

"Tarskoye Selo, July 20, 1916. "Sweetheart mine. "Cold and gray weather, though the glass is rising, reminds me of autumn. We dine in coats, because it's dull indoors. Olga and Tatiana have gone to town for donations. Nicky has asked to see me, so shall probably tomorrow, if he is not with Sturmer. Saw Vozekov, who stank of cigars and is full of his military and constructions and self-sure as always; absolutely positive the war will be over by November and in August now the begin of the end. He aggravates me and I told him God alone knows when the end will be and many have said it would be November, but I doubt it. In any case it's unwise to be always so cocksure as he is.

"Neklidov of Stockholm's son has fallen (Preobrazhensky) and the son of Uncle Mekki, too sad. Excuse a dull letter, but my head rather aches. Remember to wire to Mischen on the 22.

"Goodby, my Angel sweet, my Sunshine and joy. God bless and protect you. I cover you with tender kisses. Ever your very own old "SUNNY."

Dreads Polish Reforms.

"Tarskoye Selo, July 22, 1916. "My own precious One.

"There, a downpour again. Such tender thanks Lovey mine for your sweet letter I was so happy to receive.

"Now, I have Wlaspolsky. I rather dread it, because I feel sure I shall not quite agree with him, and think wiser one should wait a bit, but in any case not give too great liberties; otherwise, when Baby's turn comes he will have very hard times to go through.

"Then to Marie and Anastasia's hospital for a concert, a visit to Mischen, Nicky to tea, then Sturmer, between that Ania and the hospital begging me to come in the evening, and I should like to. It's the only thing which helps me, now you are away. Yet I know Ania is sad, though she has Alla lying not well in her house and might naturally sit more with her I find. Forgive, therefore, a short letter, as am in a great hurry and fidgeted (which I don't like).

"I cover you with kisses and count the moments till we shall be together. "God bless and protect you and keep you from all harm. Always miss and yearn for you.

"Ever your very, very OWN. "Shall do my very, very best about the old man."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY
By James J. Montague

THE HOTTENTOTS.

On learning that one of them has graduated from two great colleges. I've often hankered quite a lot, to teach the merry Hottentot That clumsy jokes, like eating folks, Are really rather horrid. I've yearned to counsel him to wear a trifle more than just his hair, Although his clime, in summer time, I know is somewhat horrid.

To hang one's victims by the heels and listen to their plaintive squeals While eating food, seems rough and rude, And I, with words of kindness, Yet not omitting some disparage, had hopes to lure him from these ways Uncouth and dark, that always mark The heathen in his blindness.

But since I've met a Hottentot, I must admit I'd rather not, By word of mine let him divine, My earlier intention. This Hottentot of whom I speak, converses fluently in Greek. And Syriac and has a knack At Arabic declension.

An Oxford don, a Ph. D., of Harvard University He would not heed or even need My poor uncultured coaching. And yet for all his college lore, if he were on his native shore, And I were there, I'd breathe a prayer When meal time was approaching.

Cutthroat Competition.

Competition was keen in the London street market. Two rivals were selling ready-made coats and things, and each tried to undercut the other.

"Look 'ere," shouted the first, as a brain wave struck him, "I tell yer I am selling these coats at rock-bottom prices. I charge only for making 'em. I don't need to charge you a penny for the cloth, 'cause I pinches it. See?"

The other stall-holder did some hard thinking. He saw that his opponent's glib lie had attracted the crowd.

"Oh, yes," he yelled derisively, "E says as 'e charges you only for the makin' 'cause he pinches the cloth. But I don't even charge yer for the makin' 'cause I pinches 'em all ready-made!"—Houston Post.
